Close Security and Protection

At ITUS, we have a team of motivated professionals with the knowledge, experience, and expertise to provide our clients with full service solutions specifically catered to their needs. We understand the importance of having full trust in your security to alleviate stress and allow you to concentrate on what you're doing. You need to be confident that those protecting you have the necessary skills and experience; that they can anticipate dangers and act accordingly to prevent them becoming a threat. Our close security and protection service work with professionally trained individuals to provide regular protection or specific short or long term protection.

Our protection services are tailored according to your individual needs. Close security and protection supply complete protection services to a client. If the client is categorised as a low risk then this would place more emphasis on avoidance and maintaining a low profile. However, high risk in general implies a greater threat where we provide armed officers and vehicles for protection.

When you choose us, you'll only have security who meet your exact requirements, and who we've carefully screened prior to representation. No matter where you are in the world or how demanding your needs, ITUS are the company that protects your interests. Our teams can be operational anywhere across the globe at short notice. We have experience of protecting PEPs (politically exposed person), dignitaries and executives while outside their home country.
